HIGH RANK OFFICERS SEE CAMP GRAYLING

Grayling was honored Tuesday evening by the arrival of several military officers of the highest rank. They were here to accompany Hon. W. James, congressman of the 12th district of Michigan who is chairman of the military committee of the House, on a tour of inspection of military camps.

The members of the party were, in addition to Congressman James as follows: Major Gen. J. E. Peche, head of the U. S. Aircraft department; Brig. Gen. Paul B. Malone of the Sixth Corps Area of the U. S. Army; Major T. W. Hammond, secretary of the War college; and air pilots Lt. H. A. Dinger, Lt. Pete Tuesada, Sgt. Paul Retter.

They arrived at about 5:30 p. m. Tuesday and were met at the flying field by Col. J. S. Barsey, adjutant general of Michigan National Guard. The party immediately started for Hanson State Military reservation where the visitors made a very thorough inspection of the camp. They pronounced it to be the finest military camp in America. This was their first visit here and they had expected to find a broad expanse of sand plains land but were agreeably surprised to find a camp made up of plains, hills, and valleys, where the land was slightly sloping, and with the best of drainage, and in the midst a very beautiful body of water—Lake Margrethe. They were very much pleased with the flying field also.

Congressman James is giving a lot of his time in looking over the military properties of the nation, in his capacity of chairman of the house military committee, and is responsible for the housing problems of the army. He was responsible for the appropriation of over three hundred million dollars last year for military purposes. He says that he gives these matters personal attention and that it is seldom that the War department ever go contrary to his recommendations.

The distinguished visitors stopped at Shoppensons Inn that night and left at about 11:00 a. m. the following morning—Wednesday. From the inn they flew to Oshtemo. After inspection of the aviation field there they were to leave for the Soo where they were to circle the city but not land due to the lack of a landing field at that city. The night stop was to be at Ishpeming.

These are the highest ranking officers that ever visited Grayling, and the fact that they were so favorably impressed with the camp and airport, it may mean still greater improvement and use of the camp.

CAMPFIRE GIRLS AT CAMP

School is out and the desire to go camping has reached the hearts of the Campfire Girls, and by the courtesy of Misses Hood and Lundvall their desire has been fulfilled. Monday morning bright and early they loaded Kerry Hanson's truck with cots and tents and set out for Kyle lake. On the way they had the misfortune to have three tents burn up but others have been secured and they are now nicely established. Kyle lake is an ideal spot to camp and we are sure the girls will have a glorious time.

THE COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES

Commencement exercises for Grayling High School were held last Thursday evening with a full attendance present. A class of sixteen students in cap and gown graced the platform, accompanied by Mr. B. E. Smith, Professor Wilbur of Ypsilanti Normal College, the speaker of the evening, Mr. Bates, secretary of the Board, Dr. C. R. Keyport, chairman of the Board, and Rev. J. W. Greenwood, who gave the invocation and the benediction.

The music for the evening was supplied by Mrs. Smith's orchestra, and the ladies' sextette composed of the following ladies: Mrs. Gothro, Mrs. Clippert, Mrs. Jarmin, Mrs. Milnes, Mrs. F. Tetu and Miss Hermann gave popular selections which were much enjoyed.

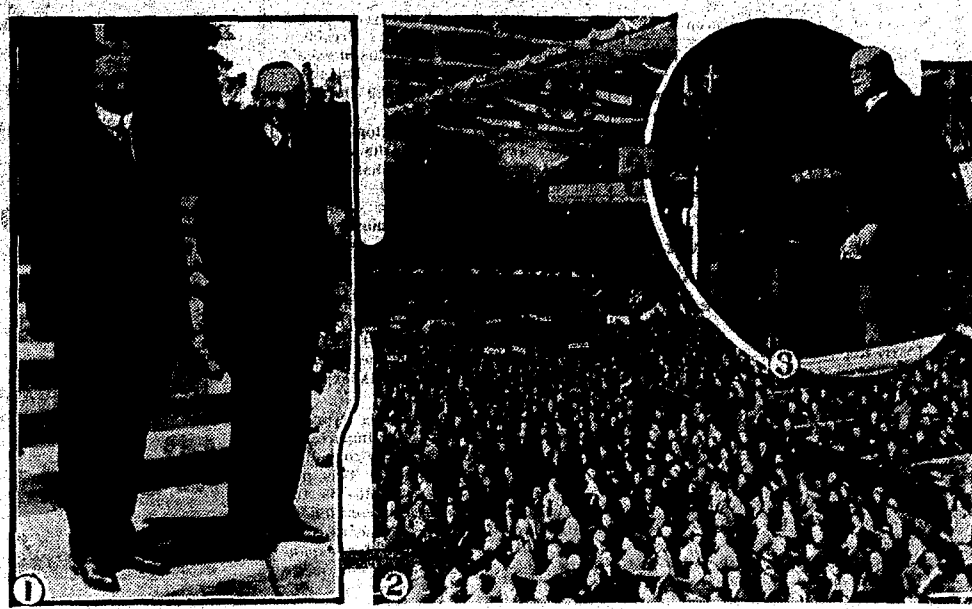

The main event of the evening however, was a very well prepared address by Professor Wilbur. He reviewed the history of the public school, and pointed out the place it held in American life and interest. Then he dealt at length with some of the modern problems facing America and the world at this time, and suggested to the graduates what would be expected of them in facing these tasks. The address was very well received, and contained much food for serious thought.

Mr. Smith made a very gracious speech in presenting the students for their diplomas, and the diplomas were presented by Mr. Bates on behalf of the Board.

A complete surprise to Mr. Smith was the short address by Mr. Greenwood as he stood up to pronounce the benediction. Speaking on behalf of the citizens of Grayling, he called attention to the fact that since Mr. Smith had spent eight years in service as superintendent and was about to leave for Detroit, it was fitting that his friends should remember him in some tangible way. Thereupon he presented Mr. Smith with a life membership in the National Educational Association. This gift is a mark of high honor, and carries with it many privileges, and Mr. Smith was completely taken by surprise, but replied in a very suitable way, in thanking the people of Grayling for their gift.

The benediction closed a very interesting program and the graduates were the recipients of congratulations and many gifts.

LARGE CROWD ENJOYS RECITAL

Mrs. C. G. Clippert and her class of pupils delighted a large and appreciative audience in their piano recital at the Michelson Memorial church Monday evening. Everyone on the program more than did themselves proud, each one taking his or her part very well. Excellent training was displayed throughout and there was variety and spice to the many selections, which consisted of both instrumental and vocal music with solos, trios and duets.

To add to the evening's entertainment, the ladies' sextette, Mrs. Clippert, Mrs. H. Gothro, Mrs. Frank Tetu, Mrs. Roy Milnes, Miss Vella Hermann and Miss Marie Schmidt, favored the audience with a beautiful number, also vocal solos by Misses Hermann and Schmidt were beautifully rendered and well received.

Misses Margrethe and Ella Hanson, who attend the Bennett School, Millbrook, N. Y., and who are home for the summer vacation, were loudly applauded on their appearance. They rendered a vocal duet very beautifully, following which each rendered a selection on the piano. They are among Grayling's favorite daughters and it is always a pleasure to have them take part in any program.

Mrs. Clippert and her pupils are to be highly commended for their recital for it proved to be a rare musical treat.

NEW COOK BOOK MAKING BIG HIT

The new Grayling Cook book, got out by the ladies of St. Mary's church is making a great hit with everyone who studies it. We know of one good looking lady who has a whole drawer full of cook books that says this is the best book of them all.

The recipes were assembled and compiled by Mrs. Marius Hanson who worked long and hard to get them. They comprise the choicest recipes of accredited good cooks of this community. The name of the owner appears at the bottom of each and all are tested and assured to be successful.

The book is nicely indexed and convenient. The list consists of the following subjects: For the hostess. Household economies. Table of measures. Budget.

Danish cookies—Danish cookies; Danish soups; Danish meats; Danish pastry. Hors 'D' Oeuvre. Soups. Meats and fish. Entrees. Salads. Bread and rolls. Cake. Cookies and doughnuts. Desserts. Pickles and preserves. Candies.

It contains about 80 pages and all recipes are carefully arranged under the proper title and are easy to find. The printing was done at the Avalanche office and is the kind that people like, same as all our work. It speaks for itself.

Every home in Grayling should own a copy of this fine edition, and, for that matter, it would be a desirable addition to any culinary department in any home in the land. This is the first time the people have been able to secure genuine Danish recipes. Everyone likes Danish cooking and this book will add many new dishes to the family list.

They may be secured at either the Central or the Mac & Gidley drug stores or at Shoppensons Inn. Mail orders may be sent to Mrs. M. Hanson. The price is $1.00 each.

NAVY DIRIGIBLES TO CARRY PLANES

According to a bulletin received from the Navy Recruiting Station, Detroit, Michigan, the Navy Department has asked for bids on two rigid dirigibles which Congress has authorized. About $8,000,000 will be expended for these ships which will be 787 feet long and 132 feet in diameter. They will carry a crew of 16 officers and 45 enlisted men. They will also carry 5 airplanes. The cruising radius will be 11,200 miles.

TO TEACH MOTHERS ON FEEDING OF BABIES

A baby feeding survey is being conducted in Crawford County by Mrs. Morse of the State Department of Health and the County nurse, Miss Keeran.

Mrs. Morse will be with us at least four weeks to help in the work of "helping instruct the mothers on feeding their babies" (under one year).

There is no question that the character of feeding during the first year of life is the main factor in the health destiny of the baby.

We must look to difficulties in feeding a baby as the underlying results in so many deaths of babies under one year of life.

Realizing the need of education of mothers as to the importance of breast feeding and its effect on infant mortality and morbidity the Michigan Department of Health has conducted a series of campaigns in Michigan. This survey is conducted by nurses who had a course in a clinic for infant feeding in Grand Rapids. This course proved very valuable to them when they visit the homes where babies are being raised.

The nurse will instruct the mother on artificial feeding only under their own physicians orders, where artificial feeding is necessary. Crawford County should surely be glad to have this survey. Eleven other counties have been surveyed before and encouraged by the good results. The Department plans to do more work of this type in an effort to educate the mothers of the state as to the far reaching effects of breast feeding on the present and future health of the baby.

Mrs. Morse wants to meet every mother who has a little one since June 1, 1927 so if she does not see the baby before July 1, notify Miss Keeran for every mother should have the opportunity to see Mrs. Morse in her own home.

The hospital has cared for fourteen tonsil and adenoid cases, financed by the Health Center and the generous work of the hospital force and the physicians. The Health Center will be open every Wednesday afternoon and all day Saturdays the rest of June and all of July. Please give us your loyal support in calling on us.

Ethel Keeran R. N., County Nurse.

PRINTER KILLS DEER OUT OF SEASON

Edward Mayotte, Linotype operator at the Avalanche office, killed a deer Sunday while on a visit to his home in Munising. He was driving with his sister, so he says, when unexpectedly a large deer sprang into the highway, directly in the path of the speeding auto.

The car struck the animal in the side, rolling it over several times and ended with the car running completely over it, the animal dying almost instantly. The impact was so great that the radiator of the car was partly driven in and one of the fenders damaged.

Of course Ed did not intend to violate the game law and says he really should be paid for the damage done to his car. (Try and get it!) He tried to load the deer onto his car but it was too heavy so kept on to Munising and reported the accident to a game warden.

It begins to look as though something would have to be done to protect tourists from the danger of deer running in the highways. These animals are becoming very common and are frequently seen along the roads. And it is no uncommon sight to see black bear along the highways.

PARENTS INVITED TO VISIT TRAINING CAMPS

Detroit, June 19—(Special) Brigadier General Paul B. Malone, commanding officer of the Sixth Corps Area, of which Michigan is a part, is anxious to have every father and mother of the Michigan young men who will attend either of Michigan's two training camps, at Camp Custer and Fort Brady, this summer, visit their sons while they are in camp.

Phelps Newberry, civilian aide for Michigan to Secretary of War Davis, is also anxious to have the fathers and mothers visit the training camps. August 17 has been set aside for the corps area headquarters as Visitors Day, and everything will be arranged at both training camps to entertain every father and mother who has a son in training. There will be no special programs to show up the good side of the training camps only, but the regular daily schedule will be carried out, good and bad, for the benefit of the fathers and mothers, and other visitors. The training camps at Camp Custer and Fort Brady will open on July 26, and will close on August 24. It is believed by the officers in command of both camps that every trainee will be August 17 be proficient in the training he has received and be a credit to his instructors. Colonel Alvin C. Gillem, commanding officer at Camp Custer, has been on the job at Camp Custer a month, and the camp has been put in order so that every boy will be taken to his new 30-days home without any fuss. There are many new features in camp this year, that boys who have attended other camps will be surprised at.

Colonel Gillem, the commanding officer at Camp Custer, is a soldier of the old school. He is a distinguished cavalry officer, has seen much service in this country and abroad. He is familiar with military training and not believe in frills and unnecessary display anything that will work a hardship on the trainees, or place one boy over another. Every boy that arrives in camp will have the same opportunity and no special favors will be extended to anyone. The camp will be Democratic in every respect.

The training will be conducted by officers who have attended the best schools in this country and abroad, and the athletics will be in charge of competent coaches from high schools and colleges in Michigan. Every trainee will have his chance on the rifle range, and will have an opportunity to qualify for membership on the Sixth Corps Area C. M. T. C. rifle team that will participate in the national rifle matches at Camp Perry, Ohio, this fall. Michigan needs 200 young men to fill its quota of 1878, and Mr. Newberry hopes the quota will be filled by the end of this month. If this done every boy who is planning on the training will have to get his application in at once. The government pays all of the expenses, including transportation to and from camp, food, clothing, bed linen, medical and dental care if necessary. Application blanks and all information can be obtained by addressing Phelps Newberry, civilian aide, 443 Book Tower, Detroit, Mich.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Nomination of Hoover by Republicans Outstanding Event of the Week.

THE Republican national convention focused the attention of the country for at least five days of the week. The nomination of Herbert C. Hoover as the Republican candidate for the Presidency, a foregone conclusion before the doors of the convention hall were opened to the delegates, left the proceedings largely a matter of routine, except for the battle over the platform.

The outstanding feature of the convention, seen in retrospect, was the Hoover control of the proceedings. It was supreme, but it was a numery, orderly control. No rough stuff. Opponents of the Hoover majority were courteously given ample opportunity to present their side of the questions at issue and no restraint was put upon the delegates when their enthusiasm burst into long and noisy demonstrations, as it did particularly when the nominations were made.

The agricultural plank of the platform, as expected, launched the big fight of the convention. A determined fight on the plank presented by the majority of the committee was made by the western farm leaders.

This plank, formulated after two days and nights of labor in the committee, ignored any mention of the controverted equalization fee of the McNary-Haugen bill, but pledged every assistance in the reorganization of the farmers' marketing machinery. It proposed the creation of a farm board with power to set up farmer owned and controlled corporations to prevent and control surpluses through orderly distribution.

Facing an admittedly losing fight the farm leaders battled on earnestly and at great length, submitting only when the majority of the delegates voted approval of the committee report.

A no less earnest but less time consuming battle, and also a losing one, was waged on the prohibition plank which advocated observance and vigorous enforcement of the Eighteenth amendment.

For the first time the radio made the proceedings of a national political convention available to people in all parts of the country. Other conventions have been broadcast, but never before was there a hook-up of broadcasting stations so distributed that anyone with a receiving set anywhere in the country could hear the entire proceedings.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE on Monday night gave his semiannual report on the business of government as it has been handled during the last few years and outlined his policies for the next six months before a gathering of the department heads in Memorial hall, Washington.

"It has been my endeavor," he said, "so to manage the national finances as to secure the greatest benefit to the people. I have rejoiced in keeping down the annual budget, in reducing taxes, and paying off the national debt, because the influence of such action is felt in every home in the land."

The people, he said, must furnish their own prosperity. It cannot be handed down to them by the government. And when they have it they must rise above it in spiritual outlook.

"Prosperity," he said, "is only an instrument to be used, not a deity to be worshipped."

Reviewing the condition of industry and trade since 1921, he said:

"Stabilization and a feeling of security have been the primary factors in the great upward swing of American industry and commerce since 1921."

The tax question, he declared, has been approached from the angle of requiring no more from the people than necessary to operate the government efficiently.

"The revenue acts of 1921, 1924, 1926 and 1928," he said, "when fully operative will reduce taxes by approximately two billions of dollars a year as compared with what would have been collected if the act of 1918 had remained in force."

"It is inconceivable that in such a short space of time the government could cut its tax rates to such an extent. Yet that has been done. Millions of individuals in the lower brackets have been entirely stricken from the tax rolls. Personal exemption for individuals and heads of families have been greatly increased."

"Preferential treatment has been given to earned income. War taxes and nuisance taxes have been repealed. Business has been freed of many hampering and uneconomic restrictions. The prosperity of today can be attributed in a large measure to the lessening of the burden of federal taxes."

"The reduction which has been made in the national debt since July 1, 1921, has contributed much to the ability of the government to lessen taxes. That reduction at the end of this fiscal year will amount to approximately $6,827,000,000. The total debt will then be $17,050,000,000. It is one-third paid."

The total saving in interest over all that period will amount approximately to $500,000,000. The reduction in the debt required by law for the same period total $3,200,000,000.

"By the end of this fiscal year we will actually have applied to debt reduction $3,081,000,000 more than required by law. That represents what was saved from national revenue. These, together with refunding operations which converted securities bearing high rates of interest into securities having lower rates, represent a perpetual saving in interest of $274,000,000 a year."

For the current fiscal year, which closes in a few weeks, the President said there would be a surplus in excess of four hundred million. Estimates are being prepared for 1929 and 1930. On this he said:

"Taking into consideration the legislation enacted during the last session of congress, we find that for 1929 our receipts will be about $3,707,000,000 and our estimated expenditures, $3,801,000,000. These estimates might seem to forecast a deficit. We must not have a deficit."

"The cost of government in the United States, federal, state and municipal, in 1921 was $9,500,000,000. In 1925 it had increased to $11,124,000,000. During that period the national government had reduced its expenditure by two billions."

"The necessity of keeping expenditures within receipts, the importance of continuing our pay-as-we-go policy, cannot be overemphasized. This primary limitation on estimates is the first step toward the continuation of that policy in 1930. It means that there will be no latitude for expansion where expansion is not made compulsory by new law or by conditions that leave no choice. In preparing your preliminary estimates for 1930, which you will submit to the budget bureau by July 15 next, you must keep this in mind."

AGRICULTURAL NOTES

The popular belief that running water in the mountains purifies itself every few hundred feet and is always safe is not accepted by the sanitation authorities, says the Forest Service, United States Department of Agriculture. In streams used as a camp water supply, bathing or wading is a dangerous source of contamination. The throwing or dumping of refuse into the streams is frowned upon by the Forest Service, which asks the cooperation of its visitors in the National Forests during the vacation season in keeping camp grounds clean and preventing stream pollution.

A hog will find shade in hot weather if he can. However, he does not realize that a shady place often may be too hot and he is likely to stay there and die from overheating. Unless hog houses are high and have plenty of ventilation and air space, it is better to keep them closed in hot weather and force the hogs to seek shade elsewhere. If shade from trees is not available, a good artificial shade may be made by setting posts in the ground and building a cheap framework about four feet high, covering it with brush, hay, or straw. This shade is better than one made of boards or sheet iron. Dust accumulating under it can be settled by watering the covering; this will at the same time cool the air underneath.

Toads often begin their mealtime before sunset and continue through the greater part of the night, thus taking the place in the warfare against insects, of the groundfeeding insectivorous birds that stop eating after daylight is over. Since toads eat large numbers of insects, that are injurious to crops, it can be said that they are of some economic value, particularly in destroying mill-pests, sowbugs, weevils, caterpillars, crickets, and leaf chafers. Toads also render useful service on the farm by reducing the number of adult click beetles, as there is hardly a cultivated plant that is not attacked by these insect pests. Toads are not fussy about their menu and will eat indiscriminately any ground-frequenting insect.

A baited trap often may be used in summer to reduce the annual crop of newly fledged English sparrows. These young birds in their search for food will enter traps that usually are avoided by the adult birds during periods of food abundance. Trapping is safer than shooting or poisoning and has the added advantage that harmless or beneficial native birds, if caught in the trap, can be freed. Canary seed, hemp seed, wheat, oats, and bread crumbs make excellent baits; or a live sparrow may be kept in the trap as a decoy. Trapping may begin at any time after the young sparrows are able to take care of themselves, which is usually by July 1. Although English sparrows are widely distributed as a species, one flock generally is attached to a single locality, a fact that makes their control easier.

Geese for Profit

Opportunities for goose raising at a profit are best in sections where there is a demand for geese for fattening for use in large cities. Where there is good green pasture, most geese can be raised from the time they are 2 or 3 weeks old to fattening time without any additional feed. Some farmers who fatten their own geese feed them three times daily; on feed of a moist but not sloppy mash made of one-third shorts and two-thirds corn meal, and two feeds of corn with some oats or barley. Some roughage or vegetables should be given. Ten-week-old goslings of the largest breeds of purebred geese weigh as much as 10 or 12 pounds when forced for rapid growth and are sometimes marketed at that age as green geese. Higher prices for such geese are usually obtained in summer. The demand for geese feathers and the practice of plucking geese seem to be decreasing and more attention is being paid to their production for market.

DIPPING INTO SCIENCE

Helium

Helium is a wonderful element which is made from radium. It is through this process of its making that we can determine the age of rocks. Scientists know how long is required for radium to make itself into helium and by measuring the amount of each in certain rocks we can tell how long they have been there.

THE MODERN GIRL

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois

GIRLS are different from what they once were. The first thing we know some girl will take into her head that she will look well in the Presidential chair, and she will pull the strings and play her cards to get the job. Girls didn't run for office when I was young. Sometimes the fellows gave them an unimportant place that no else seemed to care for. It was a courtesy, however, a concession to the weaker sex. It simply showed how generous and warm-hearted we were. Girls modestly and shyly sat back in the corner and waited until they were asked or brought forward. They were never so rude as to take the initiative.

It is not that way now. What a girl wants these days she goes after. She looks out for number one. She is practical and capable and aggressive and is quite capable of looking after her own interests. She runs for office—any office in fact that she gets her eyes on—and she makes campaign speeches. She doesn't exactly pass out the cigars and set up the drinks—she hasn't got that far yet, but she does hand out the apple sauce and asks you to vote for her in such a forceful way that there is no resisting her. She takes the lead now where once she sat in the corner and waited for the fellows to come round. She's tremendously capable. Ethel is teaching school in a country town a hundred miles away and was invited down to a formal party in our town and Nancy asked her to stay with us. She thought her party gown was quite all right until she looked it over just before packing it in the collar box in which she was bringing her togs, and then she saw that it wouldn't do at all. It was too short and too regular around the bottom so she stopped in Bloomington on the way and bought some material. She cut out the gown and had it made, beautifully made too, before dinner time. It had no home-made look, either. I assure you it might have come from Worth's or Sussanne's shop. That's the way girls do things now.

I read a letter from Harriet a few nights ago. She's up in Duluth running a tea room and doing very well. Harriet is twenty-four, and so far has escaped male entanglements of any serious sort. She has had no desire to settle down and cultivate the domestic life. She is beginning to feel differently and things are likely to happen.

"I met a man when I was down in St. Louis in September visiting Susan," she wrote, "and how I did fall for him! He's six feet tall and has black hair. Harriet's hair is red and wonderful manners. He's just getting started in law, and isn't keen at this moment to marry. I'm going back in a month and work on him."

Poor man! He hasn't a chance.

Is THIRTY the Love Deadline?

Montague Glass was born in England at Manchester, July 23, 1877, but when he was thirteen years old, in 1890, he came to the United States.

He attended the College of the City of New York and from there continued his studies at New York university—then he branched out into journalism. For some time he devoted his time to newspaper work, until 1910, when he developed the immortal characters, Potash and Perlmutter. Montague Glass has also written many plays and books, among the latter being "His Honor, Abe Potash," one of the most successful of the dozen books about his loquacious brain-child, Mr. Glass, readers may be interested to know, is married and at present lives in the south of France.

By MONTAGUE GLASS

"My niece got married last night to Max Treumann but he don't love her," Abe Potash announced the other day.

"Why, I thought he was crazy about her!" Morris Perlmutter exclaimed. "What makes you think that he don't love her?"

"Well, he was thirty years old last week," Abe said, "and Will Durant, the author of 'The Ten Best Philosophers of 1927,' says that it's impossible for a man of thirty to fall in love—or for a woman neither for that matter."

"And how old is this here Will Durant?" Morris asked.

"I don't know exactly, but I suspect he's twenty-seven or twenty-eight," he replied, "which when he gets to be about thirty himself, Mawruss, he'll give out another statement pushing the age limit five years further, so that by the time he's seventy, y'understand, he'll say that no man over seventy-five can fall in love, and if he's bed-ridden at that time, he'll be holding hands with the trained nurse and telling her confidentially that he meant eighty-five."

"Maybe you're right, because I don't know what the age limit for philosophers is when it comes to falling in love," Morris said, "but I do know that many a millionaire of sixty or over has fallen so dangerously in love with a prima donna of forty-five that his relations have been thinking of getting out an injunction to prevent the millionaire from being passed on by the prima donna to her next husband or anyhow to the Casino at Monte Carlo."

"But you couldn't call that falling in love exactly—so far as the prima donna is concerned," Abe remarked.

"Why not?" Morris asked. "Which I ain't no author of 'How to Be a Philosopher in Ten Lessons,' or any such book as that, y'understand but at the same time, Abe, I don't see no reason why a prima donna of forty-five shouldn't fall in love with a millionaire of sixty-seven—not if I was on the jury which was trying the breach of promise case anyhow."

"But what this here Will Durant calls falling in love is where a man or woman couldn't eat or sleep for fear of losing the party of the second part," Abe said.

"Well, that only goes to prove that Durant may be a first class. A number-one philosopher but that he ain't practical, because, Abe, flowers, the-ater tickets, meals in restaurants and automobile riding has become so expensive nowadays that a man under thirty ain't got the money to show true devotion," Morris declared. "You can't show true devotion with one box of mixed chocolates and bon-bons every Saturday night in these times. Abe, otherwise somebody over thirty will come along and show true devotion with a ten-dollar pair of seats for the Folies and dinner at a Park avenue restaurant before the show, and how is a young fellow of less than thirty going to meet such competition unless he forges checks on his employers or something?"

"There's a whole lot in what you say," Abe agreed, "although you are talking about falling in love from the standpoint of a business man and not a philosopher."

"Maybe I am," Morris said, "but even people in love are more business-like than they used to be. Abe, and you'd be surprised at the number of romantic young ladies under thirty who, when they have fallen in love with a young man and then discover that he ain't got the price of a square-cut solitaire engagement ring, fall immediately out of love again."

"Furthermore, Abe, there is even lots of cases where a young man under thirty was absolutely devotedly in love with some girl as far as his earning capacity permitted and even went into debt for orchids at twelve dollars apiece, y'understand, until he finds out that her father, instead of being one of the principal stockholders of the United Independent Electric Light companies of Delaware, Maine and New Hampshire, is only the head bookkeeper of such a corporation. The consequences is that next week, or even sooner, he is equally devotedly in love with the daughter of Max Jonas of Jonas, Bierlmueller & Lasky, the railroad manufacturers."

"Then you don't agree with Will Durant?" Abe asked.

"I don't say that I do, and I don't say that I don't," Morris concluded. "But to my mind, Abe, nothing makes a man look so youthful and lovable in the eyes of a beautiful young girl, than when he comes round to see her with a spray of orchids in one hand and a square-cut six-carat solitaire diamond ring in the other."

Wall Paper in America

Wall paper was imported by the early settlers of the Colonies. The first factory for making wall paper was established in this country in 1790 by John B. Howell at Albany, N. Y., but the second one did not appear until 1810. During this period the wealthy people were in the habit of importing their wall paper from England and France.

STATE FAIR EXPECTING BIG ATTENDANCE

Detroit, June 19.—The largest attendance in the history of the Michigan State Fair is expected here Sept. 2-8, with prospects pointing to nearly 400,000 people viewing the 70th annual exhibition. With this anticipated increase over last year, when 256,000 paid admission to the grounds, despite the handicap of two rainy days, facilities for entering and leaving the grand stand have been enlarged two and one-half times, providing easier and more rapid access to the stands. The enlarged entertainment program this year is expected to aid in breaking last year's record.

Of great interest to out-of-town visitors will be the competition in both draft and standard bred horses, where total premiums offered will reach $15,250. Entries in this department will close promptly Saturday, August 18, and exhibitors will be released on Saturday, Sept. 8. An entry fee of $2.00 will be charged each exhibitor in all classes except the Horse Show.

In the draft horse division, Class 1, Belgian, the total premiums will be $2,630. In Class 2, Percherons, the amount will be $2,510, while appropriate prizes will be offered in Class 3, Pure Bred Draft Horses; Class 4, Commercial Horses; Class 5, Draft Horse Pulling Contest and Class 6, Standard Bred.

G. A. Prescott, Jr., Tawas City, is member in charge; Howard C. Allen, Washington Court House, O., Superintendent; and Dr. J. P. Hutton is Assistant Superintendent. All matters pertaining to health of animals will be referred to Dr. B. J. Killham, State Veterinarian. Dr. Hutton will act as official veterinarian of the Horse Show. The following have accepted invitations to act as judges in the horse department: Charles Burgess, Winona, Ill., draft horses; Sam Haynes, Columbus, O., A. S. Thompson, Paducah, Ky., hunters, light horses, ponies and horse show.

During the evening in conjunction with 21 acts of vaudeville, the pageant and fireworks spectacle—"A Night in Bagdad" will hold the interest of the audience. This is the most impressive and complete presentation of oriental fantasy that has been shown to date in any state fair in the country. A procession of hundreds of Bagdad's citizens in colorful dress will precede the illumination of the city, which is shown on a stage 500 feet long. Jeweled palaces, sparkling minarets and domes of the city will stand out in relief against the background. A special cast of actors and ballet dancers will participate in the ceremonies accompanying the pageant, which ends in a glorious burst of fireworks and enormous set pieces, punctuated by detonations from electrical bombs.

The growth of the state fair this year is reflected by the leasing to date of $56,000 worth of space, compared with $19,000 sold at this time last year. Many of the buildings at the Fair have been re-decorated and their lighting and ventilating greatly improved. The Main, Machinery, Electrical and Dairy Buildings will house a host of labor-saving devices reducing the housewife's daily chores.

Leading his famous military band of 100 musicians and soloists, Lieutenant-Commander John Philip Sousa, who marks his golden jubilee as a conductor this season, will open the fair with a sacred concert in the Coliseum on Sunday afternoon, Sept. 2. In the evening he will give a patriotic program. Sousa will give two concerts daily during the fair.

Harness racing will be seen five afternoons from Monday to Friday inclusive, with an automobile race on Saturday afternoon featuring nationally famous race drivers.

The official premium list, officials state, will be mailed to any one on request, to the office at the Fair Grounds.

Ample auto parking space within the grounds will be provided for those driving to the fair. General admission will be 25 cents.

VANDENBERG FOR SENATOR COMMITTEE

Washington, May 29—Just as the senate adjourned this afternoon Sen. Metcalf of Rhode Island, who is chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, handed Sen. Vandenberg of Michigan a letter as follows:

"I am greatly pleased that you have had the unanimous indorsement of your Republican state convention in Michigan and that you are apparently unopposed for nomination in your primaries. No new man has come to the senate in recent years who has made a finer impression on his colleagues or who so quickly and earnestly made himself a part of the senate's business. I congratulate you upon your record and I predict a career of great utility. I hope our committee may be permitted to use your services in other states than Michigan during the fall campaign."

Sen. Metcalf signed the letter in his official capacity as chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee.

Oh! What a thrilled and happy boy Benjamin Jerome, Jr., must have been when he pulled in that enormous rike while fishing Sunday morning. Such a record as a forty inch pike has not been reached here in some time. Junior had some difficulty in landing the prize specimen but we are sure his struggle was rewarded by the fine fish. Few of us would have believed that Lake Margrethe contained such a dandy. It must have been Junior's skill as a good fisherman that made it possible for him to catch the pike.

The former were dismissed from the hospital the first part of the week, but Carlyle is forced to remain for further treatment.

NASH presents a New and Finer Motor Car

New Twin Ignition Motor New Salon Bodies

"The three new Nash Series, which are being introduced everywhere today, achieve the ambition of my manufacturing career.

"They represent an entirely new type of motor car, priced moderately, but offering you all the beauty and quality and performance heretofore exclusive to very expensive automobiles.

"To create such a car we had to develop an entirely new type of design and invest over $2,500,000 in dies and machinery alone.

"Both the Salon bodies and the high compression motors which power these new models exemplify the most radically modern advancement in body craftsmanship and engineering.

"Naturally space precludes the full listing of all features but I do want to draw your attention to a number of the outstanding attractions such as:—

"—Twin ignition, high compression, Bohnalite aluminum alloy pistons with Invar-struts, 7-bearing crankshaft with hollowed crankpins, Bijur centralized chassis lubrication, Houdaille and Lovejoy shock absorbers, Biflex-Nash bumpers and bumperettes, chrome plating over nickel for all exterior metal ware, double-drop frame, one-piece Salon fenders and longer wheelbase lengths.

"This new-type engineering of the '400' motors makes them by far the best performing cars I have ever built.

"I don't think anyone will ever want to use all the speed and power they deliver.

"Equipment is absolutely complete at the factory list price and you need buy no extras except a spare tire.

"If my judgment is worth anything you will find it well worth while today to examine this new automobile development with the greatest care."
